CAAIEYC Presidents Educational Award

Originally established by CAAIEYC to honor Docia Zavitkovsky, the Presidents Education Award is a $1,000 award offered to CAAIEYC members to encourage pursuit of advanced educational degrees and leadership in the profession.

Docia Zavitkovsky, an icon in early childhood education, served as NAEYC President from 1984-86 and was the Director of the Santa Monica Children’s Centers. In 2003, she founded Play Matters, an organization dedicated to enhancing the role of play in the lives of young children.

It is the intent of the Presidents Educational Award to provide encouragement to those members who wish to pursue a graduate degree or credential and to provide fiscal support for books, tuition or general costs of advanced education.

Eligibility and Process

To be eligible, an applicant must be a current CAAIEYC member in good standing with a demonstrated financial need. Current enrollment in an accredited academic degree program in Early Childhood Education or Child Development is required.
