The 18- to 24-month-olds would be counted toward the preschool-age ratio. This would help providers fill their preschool-age spaces and open up infant spaces for very young children. Filling unused spaces would maximize enrollment, which would result in higher reimbursement for providers. This bill would not allow a family child care provider to serve more children in total. 		NAEYC Letter Dear fellow ECE organizations, agencies, partners and stakeholders, As you may be aware, the U.S. Department of Education recently released, for public comment, draft regulations for the Do No Harm provision included in H.R. 1/OBBB. The provision essentially requires that every program in higher education institutions that participate in the (federal) Direct Loan Program demonstrate that its graduates make more than those who hold solely a high school diploma (for undergraduate programs) or who hold solely a baccalaureate degree (for graduate programs). If a program fails to demonstrate this two out of three consecutive years, it will be deemed a “low-earning outcome” program and students will not be able to access federal student loans in the program, potentially leading to program closures. Given the low wages in the early childhood education field, NAEYC is concerned about the potential impact of this provision on ECE higher		Mary Harrill, Senior Director for Higher Education, at mharrill@naeYC.org .
